THE DRUNKARD'S LITTLE BOY.

O let me go home, there's no more pleasure for me,
I'm going to roam in a happy home
Where drunkards' children are free.
I've played with my mates,
With pleasures been half wild:
But now the boys suspend the joys
To frown on a drunkards' child.

Chorus.—O, boys, this cruel world,
I wish that I could die,
I'll soon lie down in the burying ground,
Mother, don't you cry.

Yes, let me go home, and kiss my mother once more,
And then away to the barn to-day,
And then to death's dark door.
No use for me now,
I've played the last of my plays;
For my father's shame I bear the blame,
I'm despised and driven away.

Chorus.—O, boys this cruel, &c.

Farewell to the boys, with hearts so happy and light,
In study and play they spend the day,
And have happy homes at night!
Farewell to disgrace, my tattered clothes you see,
I'm going to live where the laws will give
Protection to mother and me!

Chorus.—O, boys, this cruel, &c.

Farewell to the hut not fit to be called our home
When there I go 'tis sorrow and woe—
I'd rather go down to the tomb!
Farewell to the man that made my father a wretch,
Who'll come I hope and remove the rope
From around my furrowed neck!

Chorus.—O, boys, this cruel world,
I now swing off and die;
So carry me down to the burying ground,
Mother, don't you cry.

Farewell, poor little boy,
From earth you are driven away,
And fed by law is the hungry man
That devoured thee up to-day!
How dark is that crime
That makes a brute of man,
And drives a child to a maniac wild
Proscribed by legal band.

Chorus.—Farewell, poor little boy,
No wonder you choose to die;
We'll carry you down to the burying ground,
And for the Maine law cry.

[By request.]

THE TRUANT BOY.

There was a young truant they called him lazy Bill;
He's fled long ago, long go,
When last I saw him he ran behind the mill,
For to run, sir, he was'nt very slow.

Chorus.—Then place all his books in a row—
Pack up his trinkets for a show,
No more lessons for poor lazy Bill,
He's gone where the old truants go.

His hands were as dirty as dirt could ever make,
His face—oh! it wasn't very clean;
His hair if you comb'd it the comb would surely break—
His clothes scarcely fit to be seen.

Chorus.—Then place, &c.

One morning I met lazy Bill in the street,
Said I: "Going to school Bill to-day;"
But he saw the master coming so he picked up his feet,
And he ran like a woodchuck away.

Chorus.—Then place, &c.

One dark rainy day Bill thought he'd venture in,
Teacher set him a task all alone;
But he had'nt studied long ere we heard a mighty din,
Out the window had lazy Bill gone.

Chorus.—Then place, &c.

One night he stole a watch from Mr. Thomas Page—
Lazy Bill what a silly boy was he—
They took him off to jail and put him in a cage;
He'd better let the gold watch be.

Chorus.—Then place, &c.

A London Fire, Thirty Years Ago.

BY STEPHEN ENGLISH, OF DUDLEY.

* * * * *

Hurrying through the huge, slumbering city, in the distant dim a startling scream is heard and the grating of watchmen's rattles. Anon the dismally thrilling cry of "Fire! fire!" shoots through the soul in shrill piping notes and gutterals hoarse—the pale lip quivers—the flesh creeps—the heart throbs—flickering shadows pass to and fro in wild confusion—hoary age, and glowing youth, and frantic women with children clinging to them, rush forth, shuddering and quailing before the dread enemy, which chills the stalwart heart and pales the sternest brow. "Fire! fire!" resounds through the stilly midnight air, and the gentle breezes prolong the sound; in wreathy clouds, the murky smooke oozes through the building, a glimmering light, gently waving, flushes for a moment—then all is darkness—again appears and again fades upon the dazzled sight; anon, sharp, quivering tongues of fire, intense white, dart forth from crackling beams and burning rafters; slowly the circle widens—widens broader and brighter, curling upwards in vapory columns. With senseless haste, the reckless crowd break open doors and shutters, and instantly the glowing fire, fanned by fresh gusts of air, rushes from its dark control, with a hush and hollow roar.

"Fire! fire!" re-echoes through the midnight air, and terror-stricken neighbors, in despair's excess, fling tables, chairs, and looking-glasses out of windows several stories high. As the roused flames grow fiercer, the mob shout and yell and rush about in rude confusion; above the din, unwieldly engines are heard rumbling o'er the pavements, dragged by breathless firemen; gurgling streams overflow the streets from sluggish fire-plugs. Confusion reigns paramount! Excited, bungling haste retards the coupling of the delivery and suction pipes; confused and agitated foremen of parish and insurance engines are shouting amid the tumult, at the top of their voices—a hose for the "Globe!"—a branch-pipe for the "Hand-in-hand!" a nozzle for the "Sun!" a water-dam for "Saint Mary Magdalen!" a hatchet for "Saint Mary Axe!"

Ladders are raised, and energetic firemen—glaziers by profession—with riving axe and vigorous arm, deal destruction amongst the windows; then, deep red columned smoke, rolling in fiery glow, wildly diffused by the wind, with giant stride and roaring noise, bursts forth in cloudless majesty. A murmur runs along the wondering crowd; night and gloom are gone; with upturned faces and looks of terror, the startled multitude wave to and fro in surging masses. The noise and confusion is indescribable—the working and beating of horizontal levers—the ragged, sinewless, miserable looking objects pumping the engines, singing in chorus "Rule Britannia:" "Britons—never—never—shall—be—slaves!" the straining, sobbing, and panting of hose-piping; the jets falling on the burning mass, with a dull plash, the water shrinking back, hissing like adders' tongues, bubbling and boiling and whizzing in scorn; the gushing streams seem visibly to waste, their air currents fanning the flames to greater fury. Proudly and majestically it burns, a grand and stirring sight to gaze upon. All suddenly, the roof falls tumbling in, with a rattling, ruinous, rumbling crash; a tremor shoots through a thousand terrified hearts, followed for an instant by silence profound as midnight; then, then, the furious flames, with sudden spring, shoot upwards from the fiery chasm, golden streams, softly tinged with varying hues of beautiful light; silvery helmets, brightly blushing into sheen with many a dazzling ray; scarlet piles of rosy-tinted spangles, flying and sparkling and chasing each other in whirls fantastic; showery flakes of crimson dye, with golden prisms of passing loveliness, falling broad and wide and fast, and dispelling the gloom by their gorgeous blaze. The arching sky mirrors the fiery strife; heaven's ebon vault glows in evanescent light, with a rainbow span of crimson hue.

The engines are worked with redoubled energy, and rock and sway, with the sharp, quick beat of the levers; the ropy streams at every stroke striking and beating the burning embers, whilst the densely packed streets witness with varying emotions the mighty strife. Worn out asthmatic "Charlies"* from Cripplegate, Crutchard Friars, and other districts, overloaded with clothing, are forcing back the pressing crowd; while dirty, precocious little urchins are sprawling in the mud, yelling from the stunning application of a watchman's rattle or a beadle's truncheon; thieves adding to the confusion by every imaginable stratagem that can be devised, reaping a golden harvest in the crowd, rushing about in gangs, hustling every well dressed person—knocking their beavers over their eyes, then pulling open their close buttoned coats, abstracting their watches and purses—tearing off coat skirts, to be converted into caps in Field Lane—spiriting away hats, and if any resistance was attempted, knocking the fellow down for his impudence—sham fights got up for the occasion, partizans shouting, "Dob, let fly at his mug with your left fist!" "Double him up, Jem, with your right!" "Shut up his peepers!" &c., whilst their light fingered companions are adroitly plying their dexterous avocation amongst the pockets of the country yeokels or unconscious spectators. Public houses filled to repletion, carefully guarded by diligent watchmen, choked with smoke—strong, robust men, in the hey-day of life gulping down foaming pewters of Barclay's stout—palsied age, with tightened fingers, lifting the shivering glass—delicate youths with long flowing hair, sapless, kiln-dried countenances and sunken cheeks exhausting drugged Havana cabbage leaves from Poplar—loathsome women of contageous breaths, with puffed up dropsied skin, of livid hue and faces of saffron flesh, thickened lips, boiling veins and leaden eyes, drinking ethered gin vitriolized, and belching up fumes of filthy ordure.

With the first crimson blush of the fairy morn comes a horrid silence. The golden splendor from the walls are fled; smouldering ruins; charred timbers; soft grey, vapory steam; blackened ashes; heart-stirring desolation, where the mighty spirit of fire lately reigned triumhant.

*Old Watchmen, commonly called "Charlies."

Trial of the Assassins—Implication of Jeff Davis.

[From Wilk's Spirits of the Times.

The evidence adduced on the trial of the assassins of the President; which is now progressing before the Military Court at Washington, completely supports the theory placed before the readers of this paper several days before that trial begun. Indeed, no sooner had we received news of the assassination than we rejected the idea that it was an individual atrocity; and proclaimed it to be the result of a political conspiracy, projected by men who were profoundly versed in the intricacies of the Constitution, and whose object it was, through the aid of hired bravos, to take the life of the Government. We also stated, that we had no doubt it would appear in proof, that the large amounts of money which it had been necessary to expend to keep together an organization for such an extended purpose, and to intermediately support its instruments, would be traced to the Treasury of the Confederate Government, and thus implicate Jefferson Davis and his political associates in the atrocious act. The testimony elicited on Saturday from Mr. Dana, the Assistant Secretary of War, and from Maj. Eckert, seems to sufficiently establish this conclusion. It was stated to the court by Mr. Dana, that he found at Richmond, among the office papers of Mr, Judah Benjamin, the fugitive rebel Secretary of State, an exact counterpart of the private cipher which was found in the trunk of the assassin Booth. It appeared, likewise, that the same form of cipher was in possession of Thompson, Clay and Sanders, and that they used it from Canada on the 13th of October, to send Benjamin word that some secret order of his should be attended to. The phrase in the Canada despatch was, "Your friend shall be immediately set to work as you direct;" and when we take this, in connection with the fact that the same cipher was in Booth's possession, and that he soon after went to Canada, as if sent for by Clay & Co., we can hardly doubt that he was the "friend" who was to be "set to work" according to Benjamin's orders. How fatally he "set to work" we know; and that Davis must have been cognizant of the job, if Benjamin furnished the order and the means, no intelligent mind can doubt. That any one should believe Davis less ready to murder Mr. Lincoln than the Jew, after seeing Davis convicted of the starvation of our captured soldiers, and of the attempt to massacre our non-combatant Northern populations by incendiary fires, would really be a matter of surprise. After the November election, and the impressment upon Lee's shoulder of the grip of Grant, the only hope left to Davis for his scheme of independence, and at the same time for the safety of his neck, was the utter disintegration of the North and the destruction of its Government. If he could effect this at the expense of the death of four or five old enemies, he, who had never called any of his miscreant captains to account for the murder of Federal captives in cold blood, would hardly hesitate to see that the drafts upon the secret service fund, to the order of Surratt and Booth, were pressed to their full scope of their consideration. Success would obliterate the darkness of his crime, and by leaving him at the head of a public power, perhaps acquire numerous apologists who would cheerfully demonstrate in his defence, that, after all, assassination was one of those reserved belligerent rights, which might be exercised by an insurgent, when all usual means of liberating his followers had failed. The London Saturday Review has already come pretty nearly to this point, and with a little more luck, Davis would doubtless, have found a vindication in the Times.

But Davis is deposed and caught. His schemes have failed; his Confederacy, which was built upon treachery and murder, has vanished like a mist. Booth, whom Benjamin employed, has been shot down like a dog in his tracks; the brigades who shared with him in the Confederate gold, that poured in concurrent streams from Montreal and Richmond, already stand convicted of their lives; and the public now demand that Davis himself, who, instead of Booth, played the real leading character in this dramatic horror, should share an equally ignominious fate.

But though a mean and miserable murderer, it is due to the nation that Davis should be tried for that overshadowing and paramount offence which Andrew Johnson has characterized as the embodiment of all human crimes. His individual life should not be made a mere offset for the life of Abraham Lincoln, but he should be held to account for the more awful crime of treason, and, expiate, through the most degrading form of death, his attack upon the life of the Republic. The people desire and will demand the sacrifice; and they will expect the same prompt and rigid military forms to govern the adjudication of his case, as have been applied to the cases of his less distinguished associates who are now on trial in the District of Columbia. The clamor which is made in certain suspicious quarters—first, that he shall be tried before a court; and next, that he shall be primarily arraigned for the assassination, is well understood. The suggestions come only from those who have constantly sympathised with the rebellion, and are only offered in the hope of extricating its encompassed chief from danger. Should the proof fail, through the mystery which would naturally shroud a complicity running through so wide a range of station as exists among the actors, his friends could count upon such a modifiacition of the public anger as might save his life, and probably prevent his being tried again.

We feel assured, however, that the Government will not be cajoled by this pretended consideration for the civil law, or this simulated anxiety to stamp the rebel captive with assassination, as the greatest of all crimes. Patriots regard Treason as the highest of all crimes; and the proof of Treason being patent against Davis, it would be a merel ogical absurdity, as well as an outrage on the Constitution, by experimenting against his safety on a less offence.

We know we express the public sentiment in relation to this matter. We are of the people, mingle with the people, and hear what the people say. Upon this experience we have no hesitation in declaring that it is the united wish of all shades of loyal men that Jeff. Davis shall be tried by a military commission for the crime of high treason, and if convicted that he shall be hung. They are not incited to this determination by revenge, but because they feel that this form of punishment is due to Davis's highest outrage upon the law; and they are persuaded it will operate as a salutary lesson against guilty ambition in the future. Let us say, finally, that there is one other condition which the people, almost to a man, would like to have added to the details of Davis's execution. For four years they have been singing in every city, village, and cabin in the country, the prescribed manner of this master traitor's death. The soldiers have carried the refrain with them into every battle, and when the news of Davise's capture electrified the public heart with joy, every inch of atmosphere throughout the loyal States was made jocund with the renewed allusion to the "sour-apple tree." This may be sneered at as a mere popular caprice or whim; but the whim of a great people are often the stepping-stones of history, and whether originally a caprice or not, the indication has earned a gravity, through general adoption, which should not be ignored. We shall demand, then, if Davis is condemned to death, that, as a boon to the soldiers, and in deference to the unflagging repetitions of the people, the gallows shall be made of the wood of that tree, which common accord has unremittingly assigned, as the most fitting inanimate auxillery to the expiation of his crime.

Amnesty Proclamation of President Johnson.

The Oath of Allegiance Prescribed.

List of Excepted Rebel Officials, Civil and Military.

By the President of the United States of America:

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, The President of the United States, on the 8th day of December A. D. eighteen hundred and sixty-three, and on the 26th day of March, A. D. eighteen hundred and sixty-four, did, with the object to suppress the existing rebellion, to induce all persons to return to their loyalty, and to restore the authority of the United States, issue proclamations offering amnesty and pardon to certain persons who had directly or by implication participated in the said rebellion;

And whereas, Many persons who had so engaged in said rebellion have, since the issuance of said proclamation, failed or neglected to take the benefits offered thereby;

And whereas, Many persons who have been justly deprived of all claim to amnesty and pardon thereunder, by reason of their participation, directly or by implication, in said rebellion and continued hostility to the Government of the United States since the date of said proclamation, now desire to apply for and obtain amnesty and pardon;

To the end, therefore, that the authority of the Government of the United States may be restored, and that peace, order and freedom may be established, I, Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, do proclaim and declare that I hereby grant to all persons who have directly participated in the existing rebellion, except as hereinafter excepted, amnesty and pardon, with restoration of all rights of property, except as to slaves, and except in cases where legal proceedings under the laws of the United States providing for the confiscation of property of persons engaged in rebellion have been instituted; but upon the condition, nevertheless, that every such person shall take and subscribe to the following oath or affirmation, and thence forward keep and maintain said oath inviolate; and which oath, shall be registered for permanent preservation, and shall be of the tenor and effect following, to wit;

I do solemnly swear or affirm, in the presence of Almighty God, that I will henceforth faithfully support, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States and the Union of the States thereunder, and that I will, in like manner, abide by and faithfully support all laws and proclamations which have been made during the existing rebellion with reference to the emancipation of slaves. So help me God.

The following classes of persons are excepted from the benefits of this proclamation:

First. All who are or shall have been pretended civil or diplomatic officers, or otherwise domestic or foreign agents of the pretended Confederate Government.

Second. All who left judicial stations under the United States to aid the rebellion.

Third. All who shall have been military or naval officers of said pretended Confederate Government, above the rank of colonel in the army or lieutenant in the navy.

Fourth. All who left seats in the Congress of the United States to aid the rebellion.

Fifth. All who resigned or tendered resignation of their commission in the army or navy of the United States to evade duty in resisting the rebellion.

Sixth. All who have engaged in any way in treating otherwise than lawfully, as prisoners of war, persons found in the United States service, as officers, soldiers, seaman, or in other capacities.

Seventh. All persons who have been or are absentees from the United States for the purpose of aiding the rebellion.

Eighth. All military and naval officers in the rebel service who were educated by the Government in the Military Academy at West Point or the United States Naval Academy.

Ninth. All persons who held the pretended offices of Governor of State in insurrection against the United States.

Tenth. All persons who left their homes within the jurisdiction and protection of the United States and passed beyond the Federal military linea into the so-called Confederate States for the purpose of aiding the rebellion.

Eleventh. All persons who have been engaged in the destruction of the commerce of the United States upon the lakes and rivers that separate the British provinces from the United States.

Twelfth. All persons who at the time when they seek to obtain the benefits hereof by taking the oath herein prescribed are, in military, naval or civil confinement or custody, or under bonds of civil, military or naval authorities or agents of the United States as prisoners of war or persons detained for offences of any kind either before or after conviction.

Thirteenth. All persons who have voluntarily participated in said rebellion, and the estimated value of whose taxable property is over twenty thousand dollars.

Fourteenth. All persons who have taken the oath of amnesty, as prescribed in the President's proclamation of December 8th, A. D. eighteen hundred and sixty-three, or an oath of an allegiance to the Government of the United States since the date of said proclamation, and who have not thenceforth kept and maintained the same inviolate. Provided, that special application may be made to the President for pardon by any person belonging to the expected classes, and such clemency will be liberally extended as may be consistent with the facts of the case and the peace and dignity of the United States.

The secretary of State will establish rules and regulations for administering and recording the said amnesty oath, so as to insure its benefit to the people and guard the Government against fraud.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington, the twenty-ninth day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight [L. S.] hundred and sixty-five, and of the Independence of the United States the eighty-ninth.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

By the President:
WILLIAM H. SEWARD,
Secretary of State.

Important from Joe Johnston—Why he Surrendered his Army to Gen. Sherman.

[From the Charlotte (N. C.) Democrat, May 16.]

We lay before our readers the following letter from Gen. Joseph E. Johnston, stating the causes which induced him to make terms of surrender with Gen. Sherman. We believe Gen. Johnston's conduct, and his refusal to continue the war after all hope of success was vain, is generally approved; but if any one has a doubt on this point, the reasons set forth by Gen. Johnston will clearly show that he acted correctly and wisely:

Charlotte, N. C., May 6, 1865.—Having made a convention with Maj. General Sherman to terminate hostilities in North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, it seems to me proper to put before the people of those States the condition of the Military affairs which rendered that measure absolutely necessary.

On the 26th of April, the day of the convention, by the returns of three lieutenant generals of the Army of Tennessee (that under my command), the number of infantry, and artillery present and absent was 70,510—the total present 18,578—the effective total, or fighting force, 14,179. On the 7th of April, the date of the last return I can find, the effective total of the cavalry was 5,440. But between the 7th and the 26th of April it was greatly reduced by events in Virginia and apprehensions of surrender. In South Carolina we had Young's division of cavalry, less than one thousand, besides reserves and State troops—together much inferior to the Federal force in that State. In Florida we were as weak. In Georgia our inadequate force had been captured at Macon. In Lieutenant General Taylor's Department there were no means of opposing the formidable army under General Canby which had taken Mobile nor the cavalry under General Wilson, which had captured every other place of importance west of Augusta. The latter had been stopped at Macon by the armistice as we had been at Goldsboro, but its distance from Augusta being less than half of ours, that place was in its power. To carry on the war, therefore, we had to depend on the Army of the Tennessee alone. The United States could have brought against it twelve or fifteen times its number in the armies of Gens. Grant, Sherman and Canby. With such odds against us, without the means of procuring ammunition or repairing arms, without money or credit to buy food, it was impossible to continue the war except as robbers. The consequence of prolonging the struggle would only have been the destruction or dispersion of our bravest men, and suffering of women and children, by the desolation and ruin inevitable from the marching of two hundred thousand men through the country.

Having failed in an attempt to obtain terms giving security to citizens as well as soldiers, I had to choose between wantonly bringing the evils of war upon those I had been chosen to defend, and averting those calamities with the confession that hopes were dead, which every thinking Southern man had already lost. I therefore stipulated with General Sherman for the security of the brave and true men committed to me on terms which also terminated hostilities in all the country over which my command extended, and announced it to your Governors by telegraph as follows:—"The disaster in Virginia, the capture by the enemy of all our workshops for the preparation of ammunition and repairing of arms, the impossibility of recruiting our little army, opposed to more than ten times its number, or of supplying it except by robbing our own citizens, destroyed all hope of successful war. I have, therefore, made a military convention with Maj. General Sherman to terminate hostilities in North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. I made this convention to spare the blood of this gallant little army, to prevent further suffering of our people by the devastation and ruin inevitable from the marches of invading armies, and to avoid the crime of waging a hopeless war."

Our Flag Forever.

"I know of no mode in which a loyal citizen may so well demonstrate his devotion to his country as by sustaining the Flag, the Constitution and the Union, under all circumstances, and UNDER EVERY ADMINISTRATION REGARDLESS OF PARTY POLITICS, AGAINST ALL ASSAILANTS, AT HOME AND ABROAD."—STEPHEN A. The Amnesty Proclamation.

We present to our readers the Amnesty Proclamation of President Johnson, which has been retained unpublished until the last army of the rebellion had succumbed. This is the first step in the reconstruction policy, and we expect it to advance with equal wisdom in gradual stages until the consummation. All those who have engaged in rebellion, except the stated few, are now offered terms of mercy, and all that is required is to take the following oath or affirmation:

I do solemnly swear or affirm, in the presence of Almighty God, that I will henceforth faithfully support, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States and the Union of the States thereunder, and that I will, in like manner, abide by and faithfully support all laws and proclamations which have been made during the existing rebellion with reference to the emancipation of slaves. So help me God.

The leading rebels, who not only aided "to fire the Southern heart," but who persisted in their endeavors to maintain the conflict by their services, are all debarred from coming under its clemency.

The following classes of persons are excepted from the benefits of the proclamation:

First. All who are or shall have been pretended civil or diplomatic officers, or otherwise domestic or foreign agents of the pretended Confederate Government.

Second. All who left judicial stations under the United States to aid the rebellion.

Third. All who shall have been military or naval officers of said pretended Confederate Governmedt, above the rank of colonel in the army or lieutenant in the navy.

Fourth. All who left seats in the Congress of the United States to aid the rebellion.

Fifth. All who resigned or tendered resignation of their commission in the army or navy of the United States to envade duty in resisting the rebellion.

Sixth. All who have engaged in any way in treating otherwise than lawfully, as prisoners of war, persons found in the United States service, as officers, soldiers, seaman, or in other capacities.

Seventh. All persons who have been or are absentees from the United States for the purpose of aiding the rebellion.

Eighth. All military and naval officers in the rebel service who were educated by the Government in the Military Academy at West Point or the United States Naval Academy.

Ninth. All persons who held the pretended offices of Governor of State in insurrection against the United States.

Tenth. All persons who left their homes within the jurisdiction and protection of the United States and passed beyond the Federal military lines into the so-called Confederate States for the purpose of aiding the rebellion.

Eleventh. All persons who have been engaged in the destruction of the commerce of the United States upon the lakes and rivers that separate the British provinces from the United States.

Twelfth. All persons who at the time when they seek to obtain the benefits hereof by taking the oath herein prescribed are in military, naval or civil confinement or custody, or under bonds of civil, military or naval authorities or agents of the United States as prisoners of war or persons detained for offences of any kind either before or after conviction.

Thirteenth. All persons who have voluntarily participated in said rebellion, and the estimated value of whose taxable property is over twenty thousand dollars.

Fourteenth. All persons who have taken the oath of amnesty, as prescribed in the President's proclamation of December 8th, A. D. eighteen hundred and sixty-three, or an oath of an allegiance to the Government of the United States since the date of said proclamation, and who have not thenceforth kept and maintained the same inviolate. Provided, that special application may be made to the President for pardon by any person belonging to the excepted classes, and such clemency will be liberally extended as may be consistent with the facts of the case and the peace and dignity of the United States.

The classes mentioned embrace all or nearly all who merit punishment for the crime of treason and open rebellion. President Johnson is determined to make the crime odious by inflicting the demands of justice upon the prominent traitors. They have no chance for escape from punishment except in those cases where the clemency extended may be consistent with the peace and dignity of the United States. Let our dignity be thus established, and our Government will be respected for its dignity and feared for its justice.

LEE AND DAVIS.—A despatch from Washington states that those who at heart sympathize with the rebellion have endeavored to glorify Gen. Lee and to surround him with a halo of sentimental treason. But they have miserably failed. The deliberate manner in which Lee left with the secrets of General Scott to assume command of the rebel armies, and the heartless indifference which he has manifested while Union prisoners were starving in his neighborhood, call for justice. Minor traitors may be pardoned, but such arch-renegades as Davis and Lee should pay the penalty of their crimes as an example to coming generations.

The Administrtion has not been affected by the sickly sentimentality set afloat, but will see that the leaders of the rebellion, in civil and in military life, are punished, and that there is no reason developed why Lee should be exempted. There has been evidence turned up within a few days that make him a worse man than Davis.

SOLDIERS DISSATISFIED.—Great dissatisfaction prevails at Harrisburg among the one year troops at the order of the Government reducing the bounties of such organizations twenty-five per cent. The excuse that these troops are mustered out before the expiration of their term is regarded by all right minded men as untenable.—The State authorities are increasing their exertions to have these orders rescinded, and to secure for the one year men the original amount of bounty to which they are entitled. The troops who have fought until the advent of peace should not be deprived of their bounty because their term of service expires at an early date. Let our Government show its liberality and above all its appreciation of the deeds of the soldiers by giving them every cent of the bounty which they are to receive. The soldiers, as a consequence, will have an experimental evidence of our Nation's generosity, and will not only thank it, but keep it in remembrance in its hour of trial and need and again offer their services.—We repeat, give the heroes the money.

The Veteran Reserves.

It has been authoritatively announced that all the white troops in all the departments and armies whose term of service will expire before the first of October, will be at once mustered out of the service. The veteran organizations, that is all those regiments which were re-enlisted at the expiration of their first three years' term, will be retained for the present. This is the determination of the War Department, so the veterans may not be looked for among our returning soldiers.

☞ The Charleston correspondent of the N Y Herald reports the arrest of Governor McGrath, at Columbia, S C, on the 27th ult., for high treason. He was taken to Hilton Head, and will soon be sent North for trial. He surrendered himself to Lieut H. Breck, who had been sent to arrest him.

☞ Richmond letters state that members of the English parliament have offered Gen. Lee a splendid residence in London, and a sum of money the interest of which would support himself and family for life. Perhaps it would be best for the retired but condemned General to take such a bait.

THE FOURTH OF JULY AT GETTYSBURG. —Laying of the Corner-Stone of the National Monument.—It has at length been definitely decided that the corner-stone of the National Monument to be erected to the memory of our soldiers who fell upon the bloody battle-field of Gettysburg, shall be laid on the Fourth of July next. The monument is to occupy the centre of that portion of the cemetery in which the remains of the brave men are interred, and will be an immense structure. Appropriate ceremonies, both military and civic, will attend the laying of the corner-stone. The oration upon the occasion will be delivered by Major General Oliver O. Howard, late commander of the Army of the Tennessee. The General bore a prominent part in the great battle and victory at Gettysburg. A more suitable day than the Fourth of July could not have been selected for the laying of the corner-stone, nor could a more appropriate celebration honor the day than will take place upon the sacred spot where repose the remains of our departed heroes. The National Sabbath will be a great day for Gettysburg. No doubt an immense concourse of people will assemble from the various States in the Union, to participate in the exercises of the occasion, as well as to view the memorable battle-field upon which was decided the fate of our nation.

Since the above was put in type we have learned that the President of the United States will perform the ceremonies, of laying the corner-stone. The members of the Cabinet and heads of Departments, and the Governors of the various States, with their several departments, are expected to be present and participate in the solemn exercises. The occasion will also be the anniversary of the victory won at Gettysburg, two years ago.

The Gettysburg papers suggest that all local celebrations should be abandoned within the State, on the Fourth, in order that the people may be enabled to visit the battle-field and participate in the exercises of the day. Every possible railroad facility will be afforded visitors, and extensive arrangements are being made in the town to accommodate all who attend.

☞ An expedition under command of Major General Godfrey Weitzel has set sail from Fortress Monroe to some point along the Texan coast.

THE rebel General Longstreet is suing for pardon, and will soon be at Washington.

A Soldier's Opinion of a Popular General.

The man in military command who has been the cause of the bringing about of the present indications of peace in this our once peaceful and happy, but for the last four years divided country, is, according to his history during the present war, one of the greatest men in this our day. At the beginning of the war he was but a common citizen of one of our northern cities. From that time he has gradually raised both by promotion and in character in the eyes of the people to the commanding position which he now holds—that of chief controler of all the federal forces in the United States. He has proven himself well qualified to fill that responsible position. He now commands the respect of the whole national people. As calm in his mind in the day of battle as in private life; and as self-possessing as any of the great military men of ancient and modern times. Too much cannot be said of his greatness. Too much cannot be said of his superiority; or too much praise cannot be given him for his counsels in regard to the nation's affairs for his goodness and greatness as a military genius. He deserves the praise of us all for his services in so many hard fought battles, and at the last in forcing the surrender of the capital of the Confederate States, and the principal army with its chief. Who would not respect such a man! Who would not permit such a man to be amply rewarded! Who would not give to such a man his warmest affections! Certainly none but the traitor to this, our noble America; certainly none but he who would rejoice to see the free institutions which he upheld taken from us.

The question now springs up in the minds of the people, Who is this great man? who is he of whom the people talk so much? who is he who has done so much service? who is he who has conquered the rebel host? who is the captor of the Confederate capital? Refer to history and ascertain. Cultivate the memory in regard to those who have had a trial at controling the great army of the Potomac from the Rapidan river to its present position, but not its immediate commander; and you will bring to recollection that the man who is refered to by the writer is no one else than U. S. Grant—the man who accepted the commission as Colonel of the 21st Illinois, while it was at the capital of that State; the man who was made fun of by his men the first time he entered their camp. Then and there he begun his career as a military man. Then and there he took command of but a regiment and has shown his ability to control the same; next a brigade, a division, a corps, and an army of probably a million of men, and even in the latter capacity he has proved his greatness. He has showed that he is worthy of the honor conferred upon him. He has proved himself worthy of being classed with the great men of the nation. But while he yet lives, one, equally as great, has by the hand of an assassin been stricken down; and the hand of providence no doubt interfered in as much that this great modern General did not share the same fate. But the end is not yet come. Although the enemies of America have and are yet surrendering, the sound of the drum and bugles are yet heard in the land and the sound of the cavalryman and infantryman marching but not to such contests as have been; but by some homeward bound, where they can enjoy peace and happiness as in days when war had not been sent as a visitor to the nation, but when peace and quiet reigned, and the country prospered finely.

A LOYAL SOLDIER.

The Judges of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia have determined to try Jeff Davis, on the indictment found last Friday, before a full bench, Judge Carter presiding.—There is reason to believe that the trial will take place on or about the 19th of this month, unless the defendant can make a showing of necessity for postponing the hearing for a few days. It is not believed, moreover, that Jeff. Davis will interpose any objection to a trial this month, as the facts involved in the case are patent and indisputable; and were such a thing permissible in a criminal trial, the case could be heard upon an agreed statement of facts. The trial cannot occupy more than three or four days in the impanneling of the jury and presentation of evidence; any further prolongation will depend on the length of arguments of counsel.

Benjamin G. Harris, Representative in Congress from Southern Maryland, who was tried here a few weeks ago before a special court martial upon the charge of violating the 56th article of war in harboring two paroled soldiers of Lee's army, and urging them to violate their oath by returning South and again taking up arms, has been released from the Old Capitol prison.

Col. Walter H. Taylor, Gen. Lee's Adjutant General, Surgeon W. J. Moore, and about fifty Confederate soldiers, at present residing in Norfolk, have been summoned to appear before the United States District Court at 10 o'clock this morning, with the view of testifying against Gen. Robert E. Lee and other prominent rebel officials, on a charge of treason.

Gen Grant's Congratulatory Address

Lieutenant General Grant has issued the following congratulatory address to the armies:

War Department, Adjutant General's Office, Washington, D C, June 2, 1865.

GENERAL ORDERS, NO. 108.

Soldiers of the Armies of the United States: By your patriotic devotion to your country in the hour of danger and alarm, your magnificent fighting, bravery, and endurance, you have maintained the supremacy of the Union and Constitution, overthrown all opposition to the enforcement of the laws and of the proclamations forever abolishing slavery, the cause and pretext of the rebellion, and opened the way to the rightful authorities to restore order and inaugurate peace on a permanent and enduring basis on every foot of American soil. Your marches, sieges, and battles, in distance, duration, resolution, and brilliancy of results, dim the lustre of the world's past military achievements, and will be the patriotic precedent in defence of liberty and right in all time to come In obedience to your country's call, you left your homes and families, and volunteered in its defence. Victory has crowned your valor and secured the purpose of your patriotic hearts: and with the gratitude of your countrymen, and the highest honors a great and free nation can accord, you will soon be permitted to return to your homes and families, conscious of having discharged the highest duty of American citizens.

To achieve these glorious triumphs, and secure to yourselves, your fellow-countrymen and posterity the blessings of the institutions, tens of thousands of your gallant comrades have fallen, and sealed the priceless legacy with their lives. The graves of these a grateful nation beholds with tears, honors their memories, and will ever cherish and support their stricken families.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant General.

General Sherman to his Army.

His Parting Words, with a Review of the Past—The Future.

The following order has just been issued:

Hdqrs. Military Division of the Mississippi, In the Field, Washington,
May 30. 1865.

SPECIAL FIELD ORDERS No. 76.—The General Commanding announces to the armies of the Tennessee and Georgia that the time has come for us to part. Our work is done, and armed enemies no longer defy us.

Some of you will be retained in service until further orders; and now that we are about to depart, to mingle with the civil world, it becomes a pleasing duty to recall to mind the situation of national affairs.

When but little more than a year ago we were gathered about the twining cliffs of Lookout Mountain, and all the future was wrapped in doubt and uncertainty, three armies had come together from distant fields, with separate histories, yet bound by one common cause, the Union of our country, and the perpetuation of the Government of our inheritance.

There is no need to recall to your memories Tunnell Hill, with its rocky-face mountain, and Buzzard Roost Gap, with the ugly forts of Dalton behind. We were in earnest, and paused not for danger and difficulty, but dashed through Snake Creek Gap, and fell on Resaca, then on to the Etowah to Dallas, Kenesaw, and the heats of summer found us on the bank of the Chattahoochie far from home, and dependent on a single road for supplies.

Again we were not to be held back by any obstacle, and crossed over and fought four heavy battles for the possession of the citadel of Atlanta—that was the crisis of our history. A doubt still clouded our future, but we solved the problem and destroyed Atlanta, struck boldly across the State of Georgia, secured all the main arteries of life to our enemy, and Christmas found us at Savannah.

Waiting there only long enough to fill our wagons, we again began our march, which for peril, labor, and results will compare with any ever made by an organized army; the floods of the Savannah, the swamps of the Combahee and Edisto, the high hills and rocks of the Santee, the flat quagmires of the Pedee and Cape Fear rivers were all passed in midwinter, with its floods and rains, in the face of an accumulating enemy, and after the battle of Avorsborough and Bentonville we once more came out of the wilderness to meet our friends at Goldsboro.

Even then we paused only long enough to get new clothing, to reload our wagons, and again pushed on to Raleigh, and beyond, until we met our enemy sueing for peace instead of war, and offering to submit to the injured laws of his and our country—as long as that enemy was defiant, nor mountains, nor rivers, nor swamps, nor hunger, nor cold had checked us; but when he who had fought us hard and persistently offered submission, your General thought it wrong to persue him further, and negotiations followed which resulted, as you all know, in the surrender.

How far the operation of the army have contributed to the overthrow of the confederacy, to the place which now dawns on us, must be judged by others, not by us; but that you have done all that men could do has been admitted by those in authority, and we have a right to join in the universal joy that fills the land because the war is over, and our Government stands vindicated before the world by the joint action of the volunteer armies of the United States.

To such as remain in the military service your General would only remind you that successes in the past are due to hard work and discipline, and that the same work and discipline equally important in the future.

Such as go home will only say that our favored country is so grand, so extensive, diversified in climate, soil and productions, that every man can surly find a home and occupation suited to his tastes, and none should yield to the natural importance sure to result from our past life to excitement and adventure.

You will be invited to seek new adventure aboard; but do not yield to the temtation, for it will lead only to death and disappointment.

Your General now bids you all farewell with the belief that as in war you have been good soldiers, so in peace you will make good citizens, and, if unfortunately, new war should raise in our country, Sherman's army will be the first to buckle on the old armor and come fourth to defend and maintain the Government of our inheritance and choice. By order of Major General W T. SHERMAN,

L M. DAYTON, Assistant Adjutant General.

☞ The cornerstone of the monument at the Soldiers National Cemetry at Gettysburg, Pa, will be laid on the 4th of July next, with military and civic ceremonies. The oration on the occasion will be delivered by Major General Oliver O. Howard, lately commanding the Army of the Tennessee. General Howard, it will be recollected, bore a conspicuous part in the victory at Gettysburg.

Scratchings.

—It has been refused to increase the salary of the County Superintendent of Cambria from $800 to $1000 a year.

—The Philadelphia Bulletin announces the passage through that city of the 202d Pennsylvania Regiment, en route for Mauch Chunk.

—The Union County Convention of Blair county, will meet in Hollidaysburg on Tuesday, July 18, 1865, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

—Rev. S. H. Reid delivered a sermon on the subject of Temperance on Thursday evening last. We hope it was so far appreciated as to meet with the success it justly merits. The sermon we would take pleasure in publishing.

—On a certain day last week there was a large deputy of our citizens, from the youngest to the oldest, and women as well as men, who found a pastime in fishing. We think there was f(e)ast somewhere.

—Returning soldiers pass us daily en route to their homes. We hope them a happy reception. We learn that twenty thousand are to be transported over the road as far as Pittsburgh, whence they will be distributed to their homes in the Western States.

—Information is wanted of the whereabouts of Jacob and Mary Gerberick, former residents of York and Harrisburg, Pa. When last heard from they were at Pittsburg, in 1864. Any information will be thankfully received by their son, William H. Gerberick, Dayton, Ohio.

—We were pleased to see in our midst once more our young friend Samuel Steel. Sam was in the Government employ at New Orleans. His stay in the "Southern dominions" did not reduce his proportions in the least.

—Our "typo" friend Thos. B. Flood, was to see us this morning. He is awaiting his discharge from the service. He has been a member of Co. C, 1st Penna. artillery, for seventeen months, and, as his appearance would indicate, using "shooting-irons" agreed with him.—Welcome home.

—We notice that the public roads surrounding us are undergoing repair. This is a duty long needed to be done, and the roads will not look in the least the worst for the repair. In certain places along roads that we have traveled the condition was provoking and appeared more like riding over a surface of rocks and stumps.

—Thanksgiving day was so far observed in this place as to close the stores and suspend business generally. There was religious service in the Presbyterian church in the morning, and in the Methodist church, in the evening. Rev. Gessford, of the Baptist church, preached in the former church, and Rev. S. H. Reid, of the German Reformed church, in the latter.

—The Lewistown Gazette says:—Mrs. Burkholder, relict of John Burkholder, deceased, of Decatur township, it is supposed, is the oldest lady in Mifflin county. She formerly resided at Valley Forge,—was there when Washington had his headquarters at that point, and has at different times eaten meals at the same table with the Father of his Country. She is about 96 years of age.

—The Harrisburg Telegraph mentions the following Pennsylvania regiments as quartered in Camp Return on Saturday last:—141st, 142d, 200th, 207th, 208th, 209th and 210th. The 51st and 205th arrived latterly. There are six hundred and seventy-two men in the ranks of the latter organization. The first three regiments named above have been paid off, and will at once proceed home; 84 men of the 110th are also in camp.

Handsome Present to a Pastor.

On Monday Rev. Wm. H. H. Snyder, of the First German Reformed Church of this city, was very agreeably surprised to receive a call from the young men of his congregation, who visited the parsonage for the purpose of presenting their pastor with a token of their regard and esteem for him as an able and faithful laborer in his Master's service, as well as for his untiring efforts to promote the welfare of the congregation and all connected with it. The present consisted of a very costly and beautiful Bible, richly finished, and just the article suitable for a clergyman's library. A brief but appropriate address was made in behalf of the young men by J. M. Wiestling, Esq., and Rev. Mr. Snyder responded in a few very eloquent remarks, in which he tendered his thanks for the handsome gift.—Harrisburg Telegraph May 31st.

A Monument in Memory of Huntingdon County's Dead Soldiers.

A few gentlemen in this place in a general conversation started the idea, that as the Nation will take care of the memory of its martyred President and of the officers of high rank who have fallen in the rebellion, so, small communities should not let die the names of the heroes who have fallen in the ranks and in the humbler offices. Why then might not we erect a Monument in this county in memory of the soldiers who have fallen in the war for the Union? It seems to meet with general favor from all, and wherever it has been since mentioned people say they would be glad to have the opportunity to help in the work.

In order to discuss the propriety of inaugurating such a movement in the county, we have been requested to say that a meeting of all who feel interested in the project will take place in the Court House

On Tuesday, June 20, at 2 o'clock, p. m.

Let there be a representation from every township and town in the county, and do not wait for meetings to send you, but if your heart tells you this is right, come, and give it your counsel.

This noble object needs no words of commendation from us. Every patriot who has retained the memory of the contest just terminated, will cherish the memory of those connected with the contest who have fought for the perpetuity of the Nation; but more especially will those be honored who died defending the right. We are pleased to see the project brought thus far, as it has been the desire of many to have an opportunity to aid in honoring the departed brave. The opportunity is now presented; let patriots work its fulfillment.

Let Us Have a Celebration.

The question has been agitated, and re-agitated, Are we to have a celebration on the fourth of July, or not? Surely, the time has come when it is meet to propound the question, and what anniversary of the Declaration of Independence should have been more hallowed than the one approaching? For four years the Fourth has come and gone, and, with the exception of the noise from a few fire crackers, always incident to the day, (and which, in truth, are more of a nuisance than indicative of patriotism,) little was done to impress upon the minds of our citizens that the Fourth had come. For this proceeding plausible reasons were given, and indeed it could not be expected that while in the midst of warfare, with our friends and relatives lying in newly made graves, we should have any demonstration brim full of patriotic ardor and hilarity. Now, the scene has happily changed. We have lived to see a brighter day. Peace reigns supreme. The hosts of the rebellion have been scattered; their leaders condemned, and their arch-leader Jeff, in our hands awaiting the doom he merits. Now, if ever, the time has come for demonstration. We, as the American people, have again not only asserted our independence, but we have incontrovertibly proven our power to subdue and our right to govern.

Let us make exceedingly glorious the 4th of July, 1865. Let us congregate, shake off the lethargy to which we as a general thing too fondly cling; let us shoot, shout and sing, and make the mountains ring with our loud acclaims. Give the soldiers who will have returned by that day, the foremost place in the procession, and where they lead let us follow. A demonstration on the Fourth we must have if we wish to receive the tokens of applause from our neighboring sister towns who are also awake to the subject, and receive the approbation of our defenders who fought for the days of peace.

New Hardware Firm.

Messrs. Wharton & Maguire have returned from the city, having purchased an extensive stock of Hardware, Cutlery, &c., which they will be prepared to sell at the most reasonable prices the first of next week. Their store is on Railroad street, in the large brick building, and next door to the Broad Top office. The trade of country dealers is solicited, also the patronage of town and country customers.

Strawberries.

The star of luxury has found its way westward, and so far westward as to reach our table, and from thence mouthward. We have been made acquainted with a basket of strawberries from the garden of Mr. Uriah Lewis, of this place, that he kindly sent us. Of course, the luxury was a desirable one, and their delicious flavor made them still more acceptable. Thanks.

"Spring Fever."

Were we asked to give the name of the most prevalent epidemic that ever found its way into our limits we would reply, the "Spring Fever." Another name would be more appropriate, but in default of a better we would give the most common, the best understood, or, at least, the less offensive. Spring, bringing in its train occasional days of midsummer warmth, has a powerful influence on the body, nerves and mind of the one fascinated by its charms.—Listlessly dreaming as you may be your listlessness is transformed into a more languid unconsciousness, and are soon found bobbing in the land of Nod. Few, if any, have dispositions that entirely free them from the attacks of the charming monster, and each and all have to exert themselves to the utmost to keep the eyelids from involuntarily closing, and the dreamy stupor from taking possession of their reason. Such days as we are now experiencing are designed to steal away the senses of the most cautious,

Make those sleep who never slept in day before,
And make those who have slept, now sleep the more.

A good prescription is recommended "by those who tried it," for the cure of this time-thieving malady. We have treated briefly upon the symptoms of the disease, (all known full well, however,) so, before you are overwhelmed by its charms, arise in your vigor, shake off your stupor, and find in some way close employment for your reason. It has been ascertained that when your reason is drowned by the fantasies aroused by Spring's enchanting agency, you are then powerless. So, when you feel the giant making his inroads upon your senses, arise, and shake him off; go to the fields, the hills, or the woods—but find, in whatever source you can, a channel in which to keep your thoughts directed. The "fever" will leave you ere you are aware, and you can feel contented that it has not robbed you of time so valuable.

Our Correspondence.

AUGHWICK CREEK, NEAR ORBISONIA,
June 2, 1865.

DEAR GLOBE.—It may be of some interest to your numerous readers to know how Thanksgiving day was observed in our pleasant little town, and its vicinity. In the morning at 10½ o'clock we had preaching in the M. E. Church. It was delightful to see the farmers, mechanics, and all the different classes of people assemble in one common congregation, humble themselves before God, and thank him for the great mercy he has had over us, in preserving our country. The discourse delivered was a comparison between Moses, the deliverer of the children of Israel, and Abraham Lincoln, the deliverer of the negro slave, &c.

In the evening we had preaching in the U. B. Church. The discourse was that we should thank God for our success in putting down this great rebellion, and wound up with, that every rebel leader should be hung as high as Haman, and that if there was any class of people that should be deprived of suffrage it should be the traitors in the north who have aided, and sympathized with the rebellion. The day was very pleasant, and in the evening we had quite a refreshing shower of rain.

I will close for the present. You will hear from me again if anything of importance turns up. J. B. S.

[By request.]

OUR ARMY BLUE.

God bless the soldier boys—
The patriots, and most true;
Who have fought for the stars and stripes;
When wearing the army blue.

To them all honors due,
For their bravery in the army;
While under Grant, Meade and Sheridan, too,
We wore the army blue.

Thank God the day is soon coming;
When the American eagle will appear;
Then we poor soldiers can return,
Clad in the army blue

When we are stricken with old age.
To us brave soldiers, glories due;
While standing by the stars and stripes,
In the army blue.

We have upset rebeldom,
And captured old Jeff, too;
God bless the stars and stripes,
That floats o'er the army blue.

Her languishing head is at rest,
Its thinking and aching are o'er,
Her quiet, immovable breast
Is heaved with affliction no more,

Free from suffering, free from pain,
Cease to weap, for tears are vain;
Calm the tumult of thy breast,
She that suffered is at rest.

From these regions of sorrow and night,
She has donned immortality's crest,

U. S. 7-30 LOAN.

THIRD SERIES,

$230,000,000.

By authority of the Secretary of the Treasury, the undersigned, the General Subscription Agent for the sale of United States Securities, offers to the public the third series of Treasury Notes, bearing seven and three-tenths per cent. interest per annum, known as the 7.30 LOAN.

These notes are issued under date of July 15, 1865, and are payable three years from that date in currency, or are convertible at the option of the holder into

U. S. 5-20 SIX PER CENT. GOLD-BEARING BONDS.

These Bonds are now worth a handsome premium, and are exempt, as are all the Government Bonds, from State County, and Municipal taxation, which adds from one to three per cent. per annum to their value, according to the rate levied upon other property. The interest is payable semi-annually by coupons attached to each note, which may be cut off and sold to any bank or banker.

The interest at 7.30 per cent, amounts to

One cent per day on a			$50 note.
Two cents	"	"	$100 "
Ten	"	"	$500 "
20	"	"	$1000 "
$1	"	"	$5000 "

Notes of all the denominations named will be promptly furnished upon receipt of subscriptions.

The Notes of the Third Series are precisely similar in form and privileges to the Seven-Thirties already sold, except that the Government reserves to itself the option of paying interest in gold coin at 6 per cent., instead of 7 3 10ths in currency. Subscribers will deduct the interest in currency up to July 15th, at the time when they subscribe.

The delivery of the notes of this third series of the Seven-thirties will commence on the 1st of June, and will be made promptly and continuously after that date.

The slight change made in the conditions of this THIRD SERIES affects only the matter of interest. The payment in gold, if made, will be equivalent to the currency interest of the higher rate.

The return to specie payments, in the event of which only will the option to pay interest in Gold be availed of, would so reduce and equalize prices that purchases made with six per cent. in gold would be fully equal to those made with seven and three tenths per cent. in currency. This is

THE ONLY LOAN IN MARKET

Now offered by the Government, and its superior advantages make it the

Great Popular Loan of the People

Less than $230,000,000 of the Loan authorized by the last Congress are now on the market. This amount, at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within sixty days, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium; as has uniformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to other Loans.

In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the loan the National Banks, State Bank, and Private Bankers, throughout the country, have generally agreed to receive subscriptions at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders

PIANOS & MELODIANS FOR SALE
NO CABINET ORGANS.
Not a Sole Agent.

PROFESSOR HUGH COYLE offers for sale the celebrated PIANOS of STECK & CO., New York, which he considers cannot be surpassed in touch or tonability by any instrument in the market.

Notwithstanding Steinway & Co's. instruments are considered superior by certain agents, the Professor can only pronounce them good, for there is an uncertainty in the tone which he will not recommend. As Steck is the only manufacturer that gives a PRINTED GUARANTEE for the durability of his instrument, I have no hesitation in recommending the same.

Prof. Coyle is a judge, from the fact that he has had twenty years experience in teaching music, which of itself qualifies him to recommend any instrument, but Steck's in particular.

The community can use their discretion in purchasing instruments, but Professor Coyle feels himself a judge, and notwithstanding all fictitious advertisements, he would recommend Steck & Co's. in preference to all others. PROF. H. COYLE.

HASHEESH CANDY.
The Great Oriental Nervine Compound.
TRUE SECRET OF YOUTH AND BEAUTY.

It is a remedy that ought to be in every House on account of its harmlessness and potency; and above all, because of its exceeding cheapness. It is the cheapest remedy in the world. Colds readily yield to it. In the short space of a single night the severest cold has passed away, and the Hasheesh, acting as a stimulant on the sufferer, enables him to rise in the morning fresh and renewed.—Its effects are wonderful. It quickly annihilates Pain and Suffering, and alleviates human misery.

We here present a few of the diseases that we warrant it to cure if persevered in, other remedies seldom being required:

It is a sure cure for Fever and Ague.
Sure cure for General Debility and Wasting Away.
Sure cure for all Nervous and Bilious Affections.

☞ It is sure to preserve the Complexion and Skin, and imparts the bloom of perfect Health and Vigor to those who use it.

Sold by Druggists everywhere. Price 50 cents and $1 per box. Postage on $1 box 18 cents.

Imported only by the Ganjah Wallah Company, Office 36 Beekman street, New York.

For sale by John Reed, Druggist, Huntingdon, Sole Agent.

BROWNING'S EXCELSIOR COFFEE.

Whilst trying Coffee of all the various brands,
Remember "BROWNING'S EXCELSIOR"—at the head it stands.
True, it's not like others that are 'SOLD EVERYWHERE.'
A little stretch, we all do know, good goods will easily bear;
(But a stretch like this—"sold everywhere"—is very apt to tear.)
Now, I can safely say, without any hesitation,
There's none like "BROWNING'S EXCELSIOR" in this enlightened nation.
Skilled chemists have not found a Coffee from any Store
Possessing the same ingredients as 'Browning's Excelsior.'
Nor is there any one, in or out of the Coffee trade,
Who knows the articles from which "Browning's Excelsior" made.
I'm told it's made from barley, rye, wheat, beans and peas;
Name a thousand other things—but the right one I yes please.
But with the Coffee-men I will not hold contention
For the many, many things they say—too numerous to mention.
Whilst they're engaged in running round from store to store
To learn the current wholesale price of "Browning's Excelsior,"
Some who know my Coffee gives perfect satisfaction,
Have formed a plan by which they hope to cause a quick reaction.
The case—'tis with a few; no doubt 'twill up more—
To name their Coffee after mine, (Browning's) Excelsior.
Some say their's the only brand that will stand a ready test.
Now, try a little of them all—see which you like the best,
Never have I in your paper advertised before;
Nor would I now, or ever consent to publish more,
Unless some used by "everybody," "sold everywhere," in "every store."
A trade like this I do not wish; the orders I could not fill;
The factory all Jersey's land would take—leave not a foot to till.
My trade is not so very large; still I think I have my share,
But, reader, you may rest assured, 'tis not "SOLD EVERYWHERE."

Manufactured and for Sale by the writer,
GEORGE L. BROWNING,
No. 20 Market Street, Camden, N. J.

This Coffee is not composed of poisonous drugs, it contains nothing deleterious; many persons use this Coffee that cannot use the pure coffee; it takes but one and a half ounces to make a quart of good strong coffee, that being just one-half the quantity it takes of Java Coffee, and always less than half the price.

RETAIL DEALERS may purchase it in less quantities than the gross at my prices from the Wholesale Grocers.

☞ Orders by mail from Wholesale Dealers promptly attended to.

FLAX. FLAX.

THE HIGH PRICES RULING FOR Cotton Goods has compelled public attention to be more especially directed to the culture of FLAX. It can be made by some attention, one of the most valuable products a farmer can produce; an acre readily producing 50 to 60 Dollars worth of fibre and seed. Great care should be taken by growers have their Flax spread very thin when rolling; when watered sufficiently on one side, it should be turned, and subject to exposure until all the stalks get a grey color, and the lint readily separates from the wood by a gentle rub.

It should on a very dry day be tied in bundles, and is then ready for the mill. As a general thing too much seed is sown on an acre. Unless the ground is very rich one Bushel per acre is sufficient. If the ground is very strong one and one fourth bushel is ample.

FRUIT TREES,
ORNAMENTAL TREES,
SHADE TREES,
GRAPE VINES,
PLANTS, &C.,

At the nurseries of Taylor & Cremer

Who offer their stock of well grown and thrifty TREES, VINES, PLANTS, &c., at their old prices. The expense of grafting and planting this stock having been incurred before the outbreak of the rebellion when the price of labor was low, they can afford to sell these Trees at 50 per cent. less than they can sell the same kind of trees next year. While other Nurserymen have raised their prices about 50 per cent., these still sell at the old rates this year; that is to say—Apple Trees, $15, $18, and $20 per hundred, according to size, &c. Standard Pear 50 to 75 cents each. Dwarf Pear, 50 to 75 cents each, and $30 to $45 per hundred. Plum and Apricot, at 40 to 100 cents each. Also, Peach, Cherry, Quince and other trees; Grape Vines, Lawton Blackberry, Raspberry, and Strawberry plants, Dahlia roots, and Shade and Ornamental Trees—all at the old rates.

Money invested in fruit trees is sure to yield a good return. Now is your time to order trees.
